Your Turn - Manage Experiments & Track Progress

As you're making progress with your business idea, you're likely running several experiments over time, and need a way to manage and track them. Two tools help you with that: The Progress Board and the Innovation Project Scorecard.

What You Will Need:

Test Cards & Learning Cards

Your BMC & VPC

Progress Board

Innovation Project Scorecard

Directions

1. Manage experiments in your team

The Progress Board helps you structure, manage and track your experiments.

1. Go to your list of prioritized hypotheses, and add the most important ones to the first column in the Progress Board.
2. If you haven't already done so, create a Test Card for each of the hypotheses, and add them to the Experiment Backlog.
3. Move an experiment to the Experiment Design column, once you decided to run it. Assign a person, start designing the artefact, recruit users, and organize everything else to make the experiment happen.

Depending on the size of your team, you can run several experiments simultaneously.

4. Once you're ready to conduct the experiment, move it to
